THE NEW UNION DEPOT.—The new Union Station, on the West Side, in Chicago, near the Madison street bridge, is progressing. The old buildings have been removed, and a large number of tracks now cover the grounds. The foundations for the new freight house are already laid, and the building (which will be 80 by 800 feet) will be completed without delay. The work on the new passenger station (which will be 121 by 750 feet), owing to the lateness of the season, will soon be suspended until spring.

WINCHELL'S DOLLARIES.—Winchell had a large and appreciative audience last evening. He will have another of the same sort to-night without doubt. There is nothing to equal him for real fun and something more. We have heard him several times in former years, but never so well pleased with him as last evening. His stories and imitations are new, and he seems improving in his old age. His delineations of an editor's annoyances were true to the life. He gives an entire change; go early and take your ladies.

ENLISTMENT OF MINORS.—The duties of officers in the case of the enlistment of minors is clearly defined by Judge Drummond, of Chicago, in a written opinion called out in a case of habeas corpus, a day or two since. The court is of the opinion that if a minor has enlisted in the regular army, or the volunteer service, who is under the age of eighteen years, and who has been so enlisted without the consent of his parents or guardian, such enlistment is illegal, and he ought to be discharged by the officer in command, upon the application of his parent or guardian, if made at any time before he reaches the age of 18 years.

CAVALRY ENLISTMENTS.—We call attention to the advertisement of Capt. Parker for enlistments in Col. Washburn's cavalry regiment. Capt. Parker is well known as an energetic, thorough man, and Col. W. has been fortunate in securing his services. We look for a rapid filling up of his company.

The books presented to the soldiers in Camp Tredway were received from the Sabbath school in Emerald Grove. The omission in the notice of Mr. Tilton, the chaplain, is attributable to our compositor.

A WELCOME VISIT.—The ladies of Milton honored Camp Tredway, with their presence on Wednesday, Nov. 13th, giving to the Tredway Rifles a repast worthy of the town they represented. A good number were present. A committee waited upon the Colonel and staff, inviting them to partake of the repast. Officers of the various companies were invited. Seats in the Chapel were used as tables, the company for once kneeling upon the grass, a carpet provided by nature. All was done on the part of the ladies to make the soldiers enjoy themselves in the way of a feast, for eatables of all kinds and in abundance, were provided. It was enjoyed as well as could be expected considering the absence of the Captain, who was expected to be present but was prevented by sickness. May God bless their noble souls, they may rest assured that they will be remembered as long as there beats a heart in the Tredway Rifles. WALLINGFORD.

LAST CHANCE.—Remember, the picture sale comes at this evening at 7 o'clock. All are to be sold, and no mistake.

SECRETARY CAMERON'S OPINIONS ABOUT THE WAR.—The correspondent of the New York World represents Secretary Cameron as making the following statements in a recent conversation:

"In the course of the familiar conversation of the afternoon, and in reply to the repeated expressions of a hope that the government was intending to prosecute the war with energy, the secretary gave utterance to some statements which are worth being made public, and which will amply satisfy the country that the recent rumors which have been ventilated by designing persons of an approaching 'compromise,' have not the slightest foundation in truth. The secretary said that there was a manifest determination on the part of the youth to compel us to yield—a determination to more than maintain their own position, but to subordinate the north to their own theories of government and of labor. They know that, if we succeed, in time immemorial truly free will spread over the south, by laws as inevitable as gravitation, and no more to be resisted than the progress of the planet through space. This they mean to resist to the death, for the reckless secessionists are besotted with love for the institution; they have whipped in the timorous and facile, and they mean to conquer or ruin. Here every humble boy may aspire to the proudest station in the land—work is honorable, and the largest opportunities for distinction and of occupation are open to all. It will yet be so where the 'crackers' dwell and the plantation nabobs lord it over their subjects and serfdoms. The difference between the two systems of government and of labor is radical, and the final contest has come. This rebellion must and will be put down, and whatever puppet it upon its legs must go down in the common ruin which is in store for traitors and treason. Mr. Cameron expressed the utmost confidence in the power of the north to suppress the rebellion, and he left no doubt upon the minds of those who heard his conversation, that that power would be wielded by the hands entrusted with it with relentless energy and determination."

Forever float that standard sheet!

Considerably Modified.

Yesterday we had a report of the speech of John Cochrane, which declared for the unconditional emancipation of the slaves, and which was said to have been endorsed by Secretary Cameron. To-day we have another report of the same speech, in the Chicago Tribune, which says nothing about emancipation; but amidst a good deal of bluster about what we ought to do, and what we will do if the rebels will not submit to law and order, it is proposed to "take the slave and bestow him on the non-slaveholder, if you please." This was received with great applause. We are in doubt whether the applause was produced on account of the proposed distribution of "niggers" among the poor white trash of the south, or the non-slaveholders in Col. Cochrane's regiment. Possibly this was a sarcasm—if so, Mr. Cochrane ought to have plainly told us, as Artemus Ward does, and not left us in doubt. Whatever was intended, it does not have the directness of the previous report of the speech, on the great question of emancipation, and is so puerile in its proposition, that we cannot treat it seriously.

However, this report of the speech ends somewhat better than it begins, although it nowhere speaks in plain terms of emancipation. It does not tell the slave directly and squarely, "you shall be free if you will help put down the rebellion"—but it says, if we cannot suppress the rebellion by political maneuvers—"raising up a party interest against the absent slaveholder," by offering to divide the slaves among the poor men of the south—then we will give the slave a chance. Hear what he says:

"Do to them (the slave holders) as they would do to us; raise up a party interest against the absent slaveholder, distract their councils, and if this should not be sufficient, take the slave by the hand, place a musket in it, and in God's name bid him strike for the liberty of the human race."

Why not say his own liberty, instead of the whole human race? What has any race ever done for the African that he should forget the iron bondage in which he, and generations before him, have been oppressed, and obey the command to fight for the freedom of all men? The reason why John Cochrane does not tell the negro to take up arms and make himself free, is because it is necessary for him as a politician to approach this awful subject by gradual advances. He is being drawn towards it "by the inexorable logic of events," he does not go forward willingly, and has set himself back in the breeching as resolutely as possible. But he is "reluctantly" coming up to the question, swearing all the while that he is not an abolitionist, nor in favor of proclamations of emancipation. If he cannot get up an issue in the south and divide them, he will "give the slave arms, and in God's name bid him strike for the liberty of the human race." This is progress, but it is not a declaration in favor of emancipation. Events are carrying forward John Cochrane on its resistless current, and by and by he will come up to Fremont's mark, when he will say boldly in the face of the country, MAKE THEM FREE MEN, and the secretary of war will endorse it.

Who is Guilty?

The following statement is made in the New York Tribune:

"We recently copied from the Cincinnati Enquirer what purported to be the substance of testimony taken before the congressional investigating committee at St. Louis, implicating, if not Gen. Fremont personally, at least several members of his staff and others of his intimate friends. We are now authorized to state that any and every pretense, that this was in any manner authorized or countenanced by said committee, or is even a fair summary of the evidence taken by that or any other committee, is false. As yet, there has been no report made or agreed upon by the committee, and no person whatever outside of the committee and its clerk, has had access to the testimony."

So it seems that this report upon which so many charges have been made against Fremont, was a forgery. Who of the graceless "gang" of conspirators against Fremont is guilty of this villainy?

CLERK OF THE ASSEMBLY.—In the hope of a democratic majority in the assembly, the democracy are already figuring for the officers of that body. The La Crosse Democrat names George Hyer for clerk, and we understand that Judge Armstrong of this city is after the same place, backed by his friends and the reputation he made as clerk some years since. We advise all such applicants to wait a little. There is such a thing as counting chickens before they are hatched.

WHEAT.—Yesterday a larger quantity of wheat changed hands in New York than on any other day since this market has been opened. The amount sold is stated on the street at about six millions of bushels, and most of the purchases, it is said, were for England. One firm is reported to have bought two million bushels to fill British orders. The receipts of grain here are commensurate with the demand, and the railroads and canals are crowded to their utmost capacity.—N. Y. Eve. Post, 5th.

The Reckoning With South Carolina.

The iron is entering the soul of South Carolina, and men rejoice. Well may they. Not for revenge. Revenge is a passion fit for devils only. But because there is a divine instinct in the human breast that loves justice—that finds pleasure in righteous retribution. The invasion of South Carolina causes peculiar satisfaction, for the reason that it is the guiltiest of all the rebel states. It gave birth to the master traitor Calhoun—idolized him living, and caused a bitter division for thirty years, twice made a desperate effort to compass it by open resistance, and was the head and front of the present very formidable movement. It was South Carolina that first began to arm; that first shut up the federal courts; that first passed an ordinance of secession; that first fired upon the national flag, and opened the war. Had it not been for South Carolina, in all earthly probability, this impious rebellion would have never existed at all. As it is said of Satan that he "drew" one-third of the angels after him in foul revolt, so may it be said of this arch-apestrophe to the family of American states—she drew a third of them away by her own original and devilish wickedness.

Of course all true men rejoice that retribution now comes her. The regret is that it has been delayed so long. For seven months since she poured that storm of fire upon the devoted little garrison, she has remained untouched. Other states that have followed, or been urged to follow, her example and teachings—Virginia, Maryland, Missouri, Kentucky—have felt the scourge of war, but she has all the while been jubilant in her security. Yet the punishment, though long deferred, will be all the more terrible, now that the full time for it has come. No general has yet been invested with so large discretionary powers as he who is at the head of the army just landed upon her shores; and neither he nor they are in a temper to palter or temporize with her blackest treason. Nothing but speed and prompt action, and a mission will save South Carolina from a loss of property and sacrifice of life before which all the calamities in this war thus far will shrink into insignificance.

The worst misery that will befall South Carolina will be her humiliation of spirit. Never was there a community on the face of this earth that made such pretensions to prowess; never one so habitually arrogant and domineering. Her children have been brought up to the notion of their superiority of blood and condition, and have learned to cherish no other feeling than that of sovereign contempt for the "mudsluts" and "greasy mechanics" of the north. They have called themselves the chivalry, and for a whole generation have been practicing the airs and tones of the tragic tyrant that stalks his brief hour on the stage. Such vaunting and bravado, such insolence, and contempt, such superciliousness, and scornfulness, has been put forth by these palmetto sprigs, have never been exceeded among any people, either civilized or barbarous. Never, since history began, did arrogance receive worse humiliation than in its store for South Carolina.—New York World.

New Departments.

The Department of the Missouri is the name of a new military district, commanded by Major-Gen. Henry W. Halleck. It consists of the states of Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Arkansas, and that part of Kentucky lying west of the Cumberland river. The Department of Kansas, comprising Kansas, the Indian Territory, Texas, Nebraska, Colorado and Dakota, is assigned to Major-General David Hunter—headquarters at Fort Leavenworth. The Department of Ohio, including the states of Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, that part of Kentucky east of the Cumberland river, and the state of Tennessee, is assigned to Brigadier-Gen. D. C. Buell. The Departments of Western Virginia and New Mexico, commanded respectively by Brigadier-General W. S. Rosecrans and Col. E. B. S. Canby, are indicated by their names.

THE ARREST OF MAJOR J. H. PHINNEY.—A grave misapprehension exists in relation to the reported arrest of Major J. H. Phinney, who returned to this city with General Fremont. The facts as related to us are that Major Phinney was one of General Fremont's staff, and when the latter left St. Louis for the southwest he made a requisition upon Col. Andrews, United States paymaster, for $100,000, to meet emergencies on the route. The money was placed in Major Phinney's hands, who was assigned for special duty at headquarters for this purpose. Between Tipton and Warsaw two or three of the division paymasters, having no inclination to proceed with the army, returned to the city, having first turned over portions of their funds to Major Phinney, to be safely kept or disbursed. When Gen. Fremont started on his return to St. Louis there was no other officer authorized to receive the funds in Major Phinney's hands. As one of the paymasters, he naturally considered his mission ended, and returned to this city in company with Gen. Fremont. On his arrival here, he was arrested as a deserter, his money chest seized and placed under seal, and after a few days confinement in his room he was escorted back to Springfield. There is not the least evidence that any illegal payments were made by Major Phinney, and no pretence that he acted improperly in returning to this city. He disbursed no money, except upon the written authority of the Commanding General of the department, and not a dollar after Fremont ceased to be commander. Major Phinney has the reputation of being a careful and prudent officer, and this is the first time that the slightest suspicion has been cast upon his public acts. The most that can be made out of the charge is that he has been guilty of a breach of military etiquette in remaining at Springfield.—St. Louis Democrat.

GOOD NEWS FROM TENNESSEE.—Our news from Tennessee is highly encouraging. The Union men have started a back fire in the rear of the rebel army, burning railroad bridges in Buckner's rear, cutting off his communications, and breaking up also the line of transit of rebel troops from east to west. The rebels are met by a fire in the rear on their own policy, and by southern men. These are indications of the allies which a vigorous advance on the part of our armies will secure in the south. With such a panic in the enemy's mind, and with the rebels, a bold forward movement would place our troops on a confederate soil; then the secession camps which have occupied so much of the energies of our troops in Kentucky, would dissolve into loyal men. Let Gen. Buell not delay his chariot wheels. Now is his great opportunity.—Cincinnati Gazette.

WE HAVE received a great deal more indignation in MSS. on the removal of Fremont than we have room to print. Much of it is heavily charged with the "condemns," as Tom Cochrane styled pepper and salt. If there are any of the officials in our country who are so much interested in the evidence taken by that or any other committee, is false. As yet, there has been no report made or agreed upon by the committee, and no person whatever outside of the committee and its clerk, has had access to the testimony."

So it seems that this report upon which so many charges have been made against Fremont, was a forgery. Who of the graceless "gang" of conspirators against Fremont is guilty of this villainy?

CLERK OF THE ASSEMBLY.—In the hope of a democratic majority in the assembly, the democracy are already figuring for the officers of that body. BY TELEGRAPH.

REPORTED FOR THE DAILY GAZETTE, BY WISCONSIN STATE TELEGRAPH LINE, Office in Union Passenger Depot.

Last Night's Report.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Nov. 11. Since the departure of Gen. Hunter's, Pope's and Sturge's divisions of the army, Saturday last, for St. Louis from Warsaw, nothing of interest has transpired here. Gen. Sigel's and Ashboth's divisions have returned from their position south of here, which was merely a feint to protect our withdrawal, and will march for St. Louis via Rolla in a day or two. Springfield will be entirely evacuated and a large number of Union men of the city and surrounding country have left and will continue to leave with the army, not being willing to risk their lives in the hands of the rebels.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 11. The collector of the port has received instructions to stop the exportation of saltpetre and gunpowder. The amount of the federal loan taken by the citizens of Baltimore, thus far, is $1,000,000.
